Erick is a graduate of the inaugural class of the Carlos Rosario International PCS Bilingual Paraeducator program. Recently, he was hired as a Bilingual Paraeducator at LaSalle Backus Education Campus. "My passion in life is teaching. I love teaching. When I am teaching, I forget everything around me. Thinking about teaching removes all the stress from me," he said. It is this passion for education that Erick wants to bring to the LaSalle Backus Education Campus. He knows being a paraeducator requires a lot of patience, but he has the motivation and determination. Erick says he is ready for this position thanks to the training he received at the Carlos Rosario School.

In January 2018, Erick began college at the University of the District of Columbia, majoring in Education with financial support from the Carlos Rosario School's scholarship program. "All this could not be possible without the support of the Carlos Rosario School," he said. Read more about his story here.
